Kindergarten Homeroom Teacher

In my role as a Montessori teacher, I had many important responsibilities. I carefully planned lessons and made special learning exercises for each student. I also helped plan what all the students should learn, following Montessori ideas. A big part of my job was understanding each student's unique needs and helping them learn in their own way. This made sure every student had a great and personalized learning experience.

During this time, I achieved the following:

Montessori and Child Development:

- I studied how children grow and learn, using Montessori ways. We looked at how children think, feel, and act. This helped us teach them in the best way.

Montessori for Parents:

- I taught parents about Montessori ideas and how they can use them at home. We talked about how to understand what children do and how to make a home that helps children be independent and creative using Montessori ideas.
